THERE'S A MOLE ABOUT

And he's got a mound of sound advice for under your home .

Honestly. But even we do not know who he or she is. It was just found whilst browsing the internet, and under the heading of PARK HOME MOLE. It is someone who is either speaking from personal experience, and maybe a mixture of common sense, in relation to chassis and under-floor insulation installers. Some of the content is along the lines of that which I too raised a year or two back, and certainly needs prominent mention again.

It is best that I leave the mole to speak for himself, as there is mention of a company name which I shall not reveal, other than to confirm it is NOT the one that has featured prominently for a number of years in the park homes magazine. It is on a serious subject, so check it out now. Just click on, PARK HOME MOLE and you find it easily enough. Forearmed is forewarned. Reading this could save you a lot of money and future worry. Colin Packman, March 2018

What horrors are under your park home?

Is a rusty old metal wheelbarrow holding up your park home ?
